MEDIA RELEASE: Ballarat Families say yes to a price on pollution

BREAZE hosts the Say Yes Earth Relay as it comes through Ballarat!

The Say Yes Earth Relay passed through Ballarat today, with local Ballarat families showing their support with a giant 6 foot inflatable earth globe.

"This is just a really good news story amongst all the angst." said Geoff Adams, Executive Officer, BREAZE.

"Some inspiring and energetic communities across Victoria are sending a message of support for the federal government's action on climate change."

Like the passage of the Olympic flame, communities across Victoria will be passing an inflatable human sized earth globe from town to town until it reaches Canberra in time for the passing of the carbon price legislation through parliament.

"It's our symbol of what we are trying to protect and our hope for a cleaner, greener world. We hope will inspire communities across Victoria and have a positive impact on Parliament House come November." said Geoff.

"This is a positive message from the families of Ballarat to the Federal parliament, it shows the politicians that Ballarat is serious about reducing our impact on climate change"
