Don't miss what is arguably the most important show in the history of the world! BOOKING DETAILS ON REVERSE

Rod Quantock says, "If climate change doesn't scare you @#!%less*, then you just don't get the science."

Fortunately Rod does get the science. And when he gives you his take on the physics, chemistry, biology, geology, paleontology, cosmology and meteorology of climate science you'll get it too. And then... you'll be scared @#!%less!

Rod, as always, has done his homework. He's talked to leading climate scientists. He's read the reports and watched the documentaries. He has taken the news stories big and small and joined the dots: worst fires, longest droughts, most devastating storms, species extinctions, ice caps melting, polar bears drowning... But, hey! Bugger the polar bears, this is serious.

If we continue to fiddle at the emissions fringe optimists predict only two billion people will left by the end of the century, down from a peak of nine billion in 2050. That's 7,000,000,000 people gone in 50 years!

If you don't want to be one of them then it's time to take climate sides! And if you don't know what side to be on you owe it to yourself to see Bugger the polar bears, this is serious - perhaps arguably the most important show in what's left of human history.

*Please be aware that Rod's show includes a wee bit of swearing!
